Most of the beef cuts listed are available dry aged, prime, or choice. Almost everything at William & Co. is cut to order; therefore, sizing is per your specification.

All of our beef is brought in from the heartland's finest corn-fed herds. Our beef buyer, who has over forty years of experience in the industry, hand picks our shells, ribs, and short loins to ensure the best quality.

PINELAND FARMS "ALL NATURAL" BEEF

Pineland Farms in New Gloucester, Maine produces the only natural beef in the northeast that is U.S.D.A. graded choice or higher. Pineland Farms' herd is raised without any added growth hormones or antibiotics. They are fed a diet of clover, hay, corn, barley, and potatoes, but no animal by-products.

"KOBE-STYLE" WAGYU BEEF

Wagyu is Japanese beef cattle. Kobe is the name of a county in Japan. To be called Kobe beef, the Wagyu cattle must have been fed in confinement for an extended period of time while in the county of Kobe. Until recently Wagyu cattle could not leave Japan, however, due to the demand and the limited supply of land in Japan, the Wagyu cattle were exported to the United States and Australia to be bred and raised. The cattle are raised and fed under the exacting specifications for Kobe Beef. When the cattle are almost ready for slaughter, they are shipped to Kobe, Japan, where their feeding is completed, and the cattle are slaughtered. This is true Kobe Beef. Most customers in the United States today are buying "Kobe-style" beef, the primary difference being the Wagyu cattle are not sent back to Kobe, Japan for slaughter. One should use caution when buying "Kobe-style" beef as the various ranches may not follow the exacting specifications set forth by the Japanese and the product can be substantially inferior while the price remains very high.

BEEF

Lamb cuts are available in domestic or imported (Australian or New Zealand). Generally speaking, domestic lamb has a milder, more delicate flavor than imported lamb.

The most notable difference between domestic and imported lamb is the size. American-produced lamb yields a larger loin because American producers manage their flocks from birth to market weight, supplementing managed pasture with grain. An Australian or New Zealand lamb is usually raised on steep, sparse grasslands and must stay on those pastures longer than five months to make a minimum market weight.

There are a handful of small farms in New England that raise and sell high-quality lamb in limited quantities. We are currently representing one of these farms. Please let us know if you would like further information.

All cuts and trim are per your specification.

Meat that comes from cattle under the age of nine months is veal. Within this group are three different classifications as follows:

Bob veal is the youngest of the three types. They are usually slaughtered when they're less than 150 pounds. They may have much the same pink color as special-fed veal, but they don't necessarily have the same taste and texture. Bob veal work best as cutlets, patties, or cubes for stew.

Special-fed or milk-fed veal are raised on a nutritionally complete diet until the animal is between 350 and 400 pounds. The result is meat with a firm, smooth, velvety texture and the traditional veal color: a light pink. This veal work best as veal chops or roasts.

Calves that are marketed when they are older and larger, between 400 and 750 pounds, are fed a diet that is different from special-fed veal—usually including grain and hay. The meat tends to be a deeper red, and some additional marbling and outside fat may be present.

Veal is naturally lean with little marbling; it contains significantly less fat than other meats.

All cuts and trim are per your specification.

Pork should be fresh. Unlike beef which needs to age, pork is at its best as soon as it is processed. For this reason all of our pork is domestic. Most cuts of pork should be consistent in color and well-marbled.

All cuts and trim are per your specification.

We offer a wide variety of premium quality bacon and ham, including our own private label.

Our sausages are delicious and all-natural, each flavor a combination of fresh, upscale ingredients, herbs and spices.

CERTIFIED BERKSHIRE KURO BUTA PORK

The Berkshire breed originated in England nearly four centuries ago, and since that time there has been one reason for its popularity: Berkshire pigs produce wonderfully flavorful pork.

The Japanese have been enjoying Berkshire pork, known in Japan as Kuro buta, for many years. It is raised and prepared as a delicacy, savored in smaller portions for its flavor.

In America, a market for Berkshire pork has been growing in the last several years. The pork is prized for its rare, characteristic marbling. This consistently results in a meat with superb tenderness, moisture, and flavor. Berkshire pigs are raised without the use of sub-therapeutic antibiotics or growth-promoting hormones. The pigs are minimally processed; no artificial ingredients, coloring, or preservatives are used.

Our chicken and turkey products are all grade A or better. We carry a full line of Bell & Evan products in addition to a line of 100% organic poultry.

Each kind of poultry is divided into classes, mainly based on the bird's age and tenderness.

Turkey

Classes: Young Tom — Male Young Hen — Female

Chicken

Classes: Boiler/Fryer

Capon — castrated roosters

Fowl

Rooster

Cornish — young, special breed, immature birds older

Game Hen and larger than poussin

Poussin — very small, young, immature birds

ALL NATURAL, FREE-RANGE, AIR-CHILLED CHICKENS

Our line of all-natural chickens are not fed artificial ingredients or by-products. They are not given growth stimulants or antibiotics. They are fed wholesome grain.

The birds are free to range outside, scratch the ground, and forage on plants. It is the open space given the chickens while they are growing that makes the difference in meat texture.

Air-chilled birds, unlike water-chilled birds, absorb no water. The natural juices, proteins, and enzymes are not lost, but remain in the meat during cooking, resulting in a distinctly different flavor and texture.

CREDIT AGREEMENT

As an inducement to William & Co. Foods, Inc. ("WCO") to sell and deliver certain products and to extend credit in favor of _____ ("Company"), but without binding WCO to do so, and without creating any contractual obligation to extend credit on a continuing basis upon any terms, Company hereby agrees that:

1. All invoices will be paid not later than 14 days from the date of delivery of the product;
2. Company shall pay amounts owed to WCO for all past, present and future goods and services provided to Company, its successor(s) or assign(s) when and as due.
3. In the event that there is a delinquency in payment, in addition to any fees or charges provided for in the invoice, a finance charge of 1.5% per month (APR 18%) will be imposed upon any unpaid balance due. Finance charges may be subject to change without notice from WCO, but in any event not more than the maximum interest rate allowable by law, will be imposed on the delinquent payment. This finance charge shall extend through any demand and/or suit for collection and until such time as full payment is tendered to WCO.
4. In the event of any delinquency in payment to WCO of any amount due to WCO by Company, Company will pay all losses, costs, attorneys' fees and expenses incurred by WCO as a result of such delinquency or exercise of WCO's rights as a creditor.
5. Company may not assign its rights, interests, or obligations under this Credit Agreement without the prior written approval of WCO. Company will notify WCO immediately of any change in ownership or operations. Upon such change in ownership or operations, any balance owed to WCO shall become immediately due and payable, at WCO's option. The Company acknowledges and accepts that the Company's failure to comply with the terms of this Paragraph might cause the Company to be liable for treble damages, which might be awarded to WCO in the event that the Company's failure to comply shall constitute an unfair or deceptive act or business practice undertaken or initiated by or on behalf of the Company.
6. Company hereby waives any right to require WCO to make any presentment, protest, demand, or notice of any kind including any notice of nonpayment of the indebtedness by Company or any other person.
7. Unless otherwise noted in writing on such invoice or purchase order, the terms of this Credit Agreement apply to credit extended pursuant to any and all invoices or purchase orders issued by WCO to Company.
8. This Credit Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of Massachusetts, without regard to conflict of laws principles. Company hereby agrees that any action hereon or relating hereto may be maintained in a court of competent jurisdiction located in Massachusetts, and consents to the jurisdiction of any such court for all purposes connected herewith.

WCO reserves the right not to extend credit to Company for any reason whatsoever and WCO may terminate this Credit Agreement at any time by providing written notice to Company.

Company represents that the making and performance by the Company of this Credit Agreement have been duly authorized by all necessary corporate action and will not violate any provision of law or constitute a breach or require consent under any other agreement.
